PROMINENT CITIZEN DIES

John N. Davis Succumbs to Complication at Lexington Hospital Wednesday Night.

Mr. John N. Davis, aged 53 years, died at the St. Joseph Hospital, Lexington, Wednesday night at 11 o'clock after an illness of about five weeks of a complication of diseases.

Mr. Davis had been a sufferer for some time and his case developing into one of such a serious nature it was considered the best course to place him in the Lexington hospital for treatment.

For a number of years he was identified with the firm of J. W. Davis & Co., clothiers, of this city, but recently withdrew from that firm to engage in the shoe business with Mr. George McWilliams, he being a silent partner since the establishment of the store.

Mr. Davis was widely and favorably known throughout the Blue Grass as one of the best business men in this section of the country. He was of a charitable disposition giving freely and unostentatiously to all worthy causes.

Mr. Davis was unmarried but is survived by one living sister and brother, Miss Anna May Davis and Mr. Joseph W. Davis of this city. He was a brother of the late Dr. H. B. Davis of Lexington.

The funeral services will be held from the residence on Pleasant street Saturday afternoon at two o'clock, conducted by Elder Carey E. Morgan of the Christian church. Burial in the Paris cemetery.

The pall-bearers will be Wm. Mayll, George McWilliams, B. A. Frank, Buckner Woodford, Sr., R. M. Rice, John Marston, John T. Collins and Bailey Berry.

Report of Butler Sale.

The public sale of stock, crop and farming implements of Mr. Chas. E. Butler, which was advertised in the News, attracted a large crowd. Bidding was spirited and good prices were obtained. The farm of 185 acres was first offered in separate tracts by Auctioneer M. F. Kenney, who conducted the sale, and then as a whole.

The farm was started at $75 per acre and with advances of $5 soon rose to $105 and was finally taken down at $112.50 per acre, Mr. Butler having a private bid of more money. The farm was then rented publicly to Grigsby Brothers for $8.25 per acre.

One pair of draft horses sold for $405, and a colt for $60; cows brought from $30 to $65 per head; 19 head of steer calves sold for $24.65 per head; fat hogs at $10.50 to $18 per head; gilts at $11 to $14 per head; sows at $27.50 to $33 per head; chickens from 90 cents to $3.10 each, and a pony at $185. Farm implements brought good prices. A rick of straw sold for $39.

The Leopard and the Lamb.

"No politics in the new tariff board" is the way that President Taft says he will run it. The president may be entirely honest in thus trying to eliminate the tariff from politics, but such a Utopian idea is as unattainable as foretelling the way the wind will blow. The fact that President Taft signed the tariff bill because his party had passed it, although it did not redeem the promises that he made previous to his election, shows how partisan a matter the tariff is and always will be.

Taxation is over a partisan political matter as long as the many tax payers are plundered for the benefit of the few, which is the design and intent of protection. Our civilization, advanced as it is, has not yet evolved a plan of taxation that would be equitable to all citizens. If the president believes that he can make the tariff leopard lie down with the bleating and taxed lamb while the principle of protection prevails, he will soon be undeceived. The lambs are, of course, helpless as long as the Republican party is in power, but they will never stop bleating until the leopard is muzzled and his claws are cut.

In this matter of the tariff we must be practical, Mr. Taft, and you will find it not possible to eliminate politics from your new tariff board. Doubtless you can appoint men who will do your bidding, but, with all due deference, that would only bring them to your level which is of necessity quite partisan.

The tariff cannot be revised very far downward by those who declare that protection is a cardinal principle of the Republican party, and that is what even the insurgents say they stand for. If the tariff taxes end with the collection of duties at the custom houses there would be a possibility of finding enough competent men to act as the tariff board and to agree on fair rates. Any tariff tax is protection to the home producer, even on articles that are on the free list. The transportation and other charges for shipment from one country to another protect the home producer from competition to just the extent of such charges.

But a very small proportion of the articles consumed in the United States is imported, yet the price of the home products keeps closely to the price of the imported goods on which the tariff tax has been paid. Competition between the home producers has been eliminated on many products by trusts, combines or "gentlemen's agreements" to keep up prices, so that the price of the home product almost reaches that of similar imported articles. That is what the people are complaining about, Mr. President, and from which they seek relief.

For fifty years, with only a very short interim, these high protection tariff taxes have been imposed, and the amount collected last year was $294,667,054. How much the indirect tariff tax was on home products in consequence of protection is a matter of intricate computation. Experts estimate that each family in the United States pays directly and indirectly in consequence of the tariff an average of $98 per annum, of which $16 per family goes to the government while $82 goes to the trusts, etc.

How can there be no politics in the tariff issue as long as this plundering of the many for the benefit of the few continues? Before the collection nearly every member of the cabinet was on the stump defending the Payne-Aldrich law in the most partisan manner; surely, that hardly indicates "no politics in the tariff board."

Depended on the Dog.

A very small boy was trying to lead a big St. Bernard dog up the road. "Where are you going to take the dog, my little man?" inquired a passer-by. "I'm going to see where—where he wants to go first," was the breathless reply.

Franklin's Wisdom.

"My rule is to go straight on doing what appears to me to be right, leaving the consequences to Providence."—Benjamin Franklin.

Early Shopping.

Early Christmas shopping for the sake of employees of the big stores has been taken up actively in Chicago by the Consumers League, the Girls' Friendly Society and various college societies who declare that the strain incident to the holiday rush must be lessened. Already extra forces of clerks have been engaged and the regular Christmas delivery service inaugurated more than a month in advance of Christmas. This "shop early" movement was considered by the national convention of the Girls' Friendly Society.

Mrs. Robert B. Gregory, president of the Chicago branch, upon her return said: "If women realized the strain undergone by girls who serve them in the department stores during holiday week and before they would begin immediately to do their buying. Moreover many articles can be purchased cheaper a month or so in advance than during the holiday week. Women who are interested in aiding the sales girls should not be satisfied when they have completed their own shopping early; they should call up their friends and point out to them the advantages all around in early buying and get them to do the same."

Each year the total of holiday buying has mounted higher in the millions the business of a few weeks reaching proportions as great as that of several ordinary months.

Counties Shy in Official Count.

According to a dispatch from Frankfort election returns from the Congressional elections of this month are still incomplete, several counties in several districts not having been reported to the Secretary of State. The returns as now in, where the count is complete, show that Ben Johnson carried the Fourth district by 6,311. In the Third District R. Y. Thomas' majority, officially, was 1,1213. W. J. Fields was elected in the Ninth by 613. All the counties have reported in these districts. Several counties in the Eighth district are still out, they being Shelby, Mercer Lincoln and Rockcastle.

Cripple Carves Alleged Assailant.

James Moore and Ed Knox engaged in a difficulty in Carlisle with the result that Moore sustained a serious wound about the hip and abdomen which it took fourteen stitches to close. The cut was made by a knife alleged to have been in the hands of Knox, who claims Moore was advancing upon him and striking at him. He claims self defense. Knox is a cripple, having only one leg. Moore, who is a carriage painter, will recover.

Needle in Body Two Decades.

After having carried a needle in her body for twenty years, Mrs. William J. Thomas, of Youngstown, O., discovered it protruding from her right hip the other day. She at first thought it was a pin in a shawl which she was wearing, but later remembered that she had swallowed the needle when she was a child, 14 years old. The needle had turned black.

Suit for Taxes Against Southern

Suit has been filed in Frankfort by State Revenue Agent Earl Huntsman for back taxes for the years 1906-07-08-9 and 1910. The petition alleges that the Southern Railway did not make a correct report to the Auditor in that it reported only 127.75 miles in Kentucky when as a matter of fact it operated 162.16 miles, and that it reported that the Southern Railway in Kentucky operated the road in this State, while as a matter of fact, so the petition says, the Southern Railway operated the roads and should pay franchise tax on a valuation fixed by taking the proportionate part of its capital stock and net earnings that the Kentucky mileage bears to the whole road and its earnings and capital stock.

The Ancient of a Future Day.

What Ails You?

Do you feel weak, tired, despondent, have frequent headaches, coated tongue, bitter or bad taste in morning, "heart-burn," belching of gas, acid risings in throat after eating, stomach gnaw or burn, foul breath, dizzy spells, poor or variable appetite, nausea at times and kindred symptoms?

If you have any considerable number of the above symptoms you are suffering from biliousness, torpid liver with indigestion, or dyspepsia. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is made up of the most valuable medicinal principles known to medical science for the permanent cure of such abnormal conditions. It is a most efficient liver invigorator, stomach tonic, bowel regulator and nerve strengthener.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is not a patent medicine or secret nostrum, a full list of its ingredients being printed on its bottle-wrapper and attested under oath. A glance at these will show that it contains no alcohol, or harmful habit-forming drugs. It is a fluid extract made with pure, triple-refined glycerine, of proper strength, from the roots of native American medicinal forest plants. CHOKED OFF.

"Gentlemen," began the man with the horseshoe pin, "I was raised in New England, and when Thanksgiving came 'round—"

"Please don't!" interrupted the man with the broken nose.

"But I was raised in New England, and when—"

"I am willing to buy you off!"

"You are offensive, sir. I was going to say—"

"Oh, yes, but don't! You are going to tell about those old Thanksgiving dinners up in Vermont—cider—pies—turkeys—geese—ducks—gathering of the Smith family, and all that. It's old. We've been hearing about those feasts and gatherings for the last hundred years. Please come off!"

"Sir, you butted in too quick," observed the other. "I was simply going to say that when our Thanksgiving Days came 'round we had pork and beans for dinner, and there wasn't a Smith within ten miles of us. Some folks are altogether too smart!"

To Kill Bull Thistles.

Bull thistles, common in pastures, cannot always be killed by mowing. Cutting tends to prevent maturing of seed. Cutting off the thistles just below the surface of the ground two or three times a year will effectually eradicate them. Working the ground in rotation of grass, grain and corn is a very sure way of eradicating weeds.

Tired Hobo—"Madam, I'd buy a picture postcard and write yer a note o' thanks."

Most people are so satisfied they are doing better that they can't see they are doing worse.

Roumanian Funeral Custom.

In Roumania a curious old funeral custom showed an amusing thoughtfulness for the very natural human vanity of the dead, two openings corresponding to ears being cut in the casket so that the corpse might have the pleasure of hearing the songs of mourning sung on either side of him as the coffin was borne to the grave.

Thought He Was as Smart as His Boy.

When Sir William Gilbert was twenty-seven and was known to the world as a promising writer, his father, who was a retired naval surgeon, wrote a semi-metaphysical, semi-medical book, entitled "Shirley Hall Asylums," his first book. Not long ago Edith A. Brown, who was then preparing a biography of the younger man, having heard that the son was the incentive from without which spurred into action the inherent but dormant literary talent of the father, asked if such was the fact.

"Yes," replied the author of the "Bab Ballads" and the wittiest librettos ever written, I think the little success which had attended my humble efforts certainly influenced my father.

"You see," he added, with a suspicion of a smile, "my father never had an exalted idea of my ability. He thought if I could write anybody could, and forthwith he began."

An Easy Job.

Indifference displayed in the face of the uncertainties and dangers of life is characteristic of the Wessex dwellers in the "Islands of the Vale," according to Eleanor G. Hayden, the author of the book of the title, who supports her statement with a story of humorous turn.

A certain cottage and its old mistress had improved so greatly in comfort and appearance that a visitor shrewdly surmised that the son of the house, a lazy ne'er-do-well, had turned over a new leaf. He inquired about it.

"Yes, sir, my son's in work now," said the smiling old mother. "Takes good money, he does, too. All he has to do is to go twice a day to the circus and put his head in the lion's mouth. The rest of his time 'e 'as to himself."

Free Speech in England.

There is no such thing on earth as "full freedom of speech," but they come as near to it in England as they do anywhere. Yes, the press of England can (and does) criticize the Government as much as it pleases—but with the string always attached to the freedom of being liable to be tried for libel or treason.

Kind Word Never Misplaced.

Always say a kind word if you can, if only that it may come in, perhaps, with singular opportuneness, entering some mournful man's darkened room like a beautiful firefly, whose happy convolutions he cannot but watch, forgetting his many troubles.—Arthur Helps.

Moscow Bell Used as Chapel.

Some of the bells that were cast in the golden age of bell founding are of gigantic size and worldwide renown. The largest in existence is the czar bell of Moscow, which weighs some 200 tons. Its height is 19 feet, its circumference 60 feet and the thickness of the metal used is two feet. It was never rung, as it cracked in the furnace, and is now used as a chapel, its broken side forming the doorway.

The Price of Riches.

If I knew a miser who gave up every kind of comfortable living, all the pleasure of doing good to others, all the esteem of his fellow citizens and the joys of benevolent friendship for the sake of accumulating wealth. Poor man, said I, you pay too much for your whistle.—Benjamin Franklin.

Adam's Sister.

The palm tree has always been venerated wherever it grows; in some places it is worshiped. "Honor the palm tree," says a Mohammedan writer, "for she is your father's aunt, for this tree was formed of the remainder of the clay from which Adam was created."—From Bonfort's Wine and Spirit Circular.

UGHT TO KNOW

Comfort and a Pious Soul.

Susan's only comfort under the circumstances was to reflect that Sir Guy was certainly going, at no distant date, to a place where his rank would not be costly would be nothing compared to the period for which he would be doomed to suffer torment.—From James Payne's "Gwendoline's Harrest."

Made the Bells Useful.

Two brothers named Rivers, who acted as librarians in connection with the Three Choirs' Festival at Gloucester, England, found on completing their work at night that they had been locked in the cathedral. They secured their liberty by getting into the belfry and ringing the bells.

Free Liver Remedy

It is well to stop a physical ailment at the first signs of its approach, and that is especially true of liver trouble, which can eventually give rise to so many serious complications. Many have liver trouble and imagine it is indigestion, and hence take the wrong remedy.

When the liver does not store up sufficient gastric juices it becomes sluggish, and in this way disturbs the stomach and bowels, with which it is supposed to work in harmony. Then comes the sallow complexion, the pimply face, the dull pain in the forehead, the thinning of the blood, etc. A very quick and sensible way to stop the trouble as well as to cure it is by the use of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which contains ingredients especially intended to promote the activity of the liver.

Among the many thousands who have written the doctor about the results achieved with his remedy, and who are glad to make the facts public so that others can help themselves, are Mr. Jas. Kennedy, St. Louis, Mo.; Mrs. S. A. La Rue of Smith's Grove, Ky., and many others.

These, like thousands of others, started the use of Syrup Pepsin with a sample. If you will send your name and address you can also obtain a free trial bottle. This will prove to you that liver trouble is promptly cured with this remedy or money will be refunded. Having tried it you can then buy it in the regular way of your druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, and the latter is sufficient for an entire family.

This remedy is a vast improvement over cathartic tablets and salts, which only do good for the time being. Syrup Pepsin is permanent in its results, is pleasant to take and does not gripe. It is especially good for all those who cannot stand a violent purgative.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address to Dr. W. E. Caldwell, R. 500 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

Electric Chair Soon to be Completed.

The old times barbarous way of inflicting the death penalty in Kentucky will soon be a thing of the past, as the work of installing the death chair at Eddyville penitentiary is going on steadily and will be ready for use in a few weeks. The electrocution law went into effect on June 14 and if a crime is committed after that time for which the death penalty is imposed the condemned man will be electrocuted. There has been a notable change made in the prison at Frankfort. The old penitentiary at that place will soon be converted into a reformatory and this is one of the principal reasons the death chair was located at Eddyville instead of Frankfort as it is hardly probable the death penalty will be inflicted in a reformatory. The Prison Commission will be ready in a few months to begin the transfer of the prisoners. All prisoners over thirty years of age will be taken to Eddyville and also under thirty will go to Frankfort. Also, under this new law, all prisoners, no matter what crime, that meet the requirements as to conduct can be paroled and quite a number are now being granted.

Promise of immunity from punishment if he would testify against his companions in crime, which was not carried out in the trial court, was fulfilled by Governor Willson Tuesday when he granted a conditional pardon to James Moss, serving a sentence of two years in the Eddyville penitentiary for housebreaking. "He was arrested with two other men and agreed to testify against the others if granted immunity. The promise was made, but the County Attorney, who made the promise, was absent when the case was tried and Moss was convicted. The Governor says the promise should be made good."

Kentucky Active in Selling Red Cross Seals.

Over one hundred towns in Kentucky have already taken up the sale of the Red Cross Christmas Seals. More of them taking up the fight every day. It is aimed to place the little seals on sale in every city and town of one hundred inhabitants and over. Ten thousand dollars for the Prevention of Tuberculosis in Kentucky this year is the slogan. Everybody is helping; nobody gets any profit for selling the little seals. They are doing it to help along the good cause. The National Red Cross gets 12 1/2 per cent for furnishing the seals and the greatest quantities of advertising matter. The rest will be used to fight consumption in every county and village in Kentucky. Every citizen in the State will be benefited, therefore everybody should help by purchasing the pretty little seals.

Few Kentuckians know that there are 20,000 cases of consumption in our State. That consumption is infectious and not inherited. That consumption can be cured if taken in the early stage, but not with patent medicines. That consumption can be stamped out so that it will be as little known as yellow fever or small pox is today. That 6,541 persons died in Kentucky last year from consumption and as many will die this and the next and every other year, unless it is stopped. The money received from the Red Cross Christmas Seals will make it possible for the State Association to carry out its program of lectures and health exhibits, showing the people of Kentucky how to protect themselves against Tuberculosis by preventing its spread. Everybody can help by buying the Red Cross Christmas Seals. Write to the Secretary of the Kentucky Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, Eugene Kerner, 215 E. Walnut Street, Louisville, Kentucky.

Suits Against F. & C. for Damages.

The Georgetown Times says: "Five suits calling for a total of $50,000 damages have been brought for alleged injuries occurring when an F. & C. train was derailed near Stamping Ground on the November 23, 1909."

"Dr. J. N. Hurty sues for $10,000. He alleges that he was injured in the wreck and has not yet recovered from the effects of those injuries. He says he was compelled to spend $600 for physicians, nurses and other expenses because of the injuries, and asks damages in the sum named above in addition for his mental and physical suffering."

"John H. Abdon of Brownston, Indiana, his wife and their daughter were passengers on the train. Mr. Abdon as administrator of his wife's estate has filed suit for $25,000, claiming that his wife was seriously injured in the derailling of the train, and that said injuries caused her death last September. He prays for $5,000 for himself on account of personal injuries. His daughter, Bessie Abdon, sues the company for $20,000."

THEATRICAL.SOUSA'S BAND AT PARIS GRAND FRIDAY AFTERNOON, DEC. 2.

John Phillip Sousa, master of band conductors, is the greatest traveler among musicians. During the past eighteen years he has covered more than half a million miles, playing or directing his band before great audiences in many of the civilized countries of the globe. Besides the United States and Canada, Sousa has won notable success in England, Germany, France, Russia, Austria, Holland, Belgium, Denmark, Ireland, Scotland and Wales.

Now the March King is preparing for a tour of the world which began late in August and will not end until the early fall of 1911. Following his appearances at Ocean Grove, N. J., Sousa and his band will be heard at Willow Grove, at the Western Pennsylvania Exposition, Pittsburgh, in several concerts in New York State and then in some of the principal cities of the middle west. After his farewell at the Hippodrome, New York, Sousa sails with his men for London here his first European concert takes place January 2.

Before the 25,000 mile trip is over Sousa will have won the applause of music lovers in most of the countries already mentioned and, in addition, will have faced the citizens of Egypt, Australia, Arabia and Japan. As always, two distinguished soloists, a singer and a violinist, will accompany the Sousa Band. Herbert Clarke, first cornetist and assistant conductor, will also appear frequently as soloist.

Sousa and his entire band will be at the Paris Grand for one performance only, Friday afternoon, December 2, at 2 o'clock.

The Comet is still attracting the crowds and some high class motion pictures are being presented. Today there will be two new pictures, a good Lubin film, "A Healing Faith," and a Vitagraph comedy, "The Wrong Box."

K. C. B. C. Has a Fine Record.

The football team of the Kentucky Classical Business College closed the foot ball season on its grounds in North Middletown Tuesday when it defeated the strong team from the Mt. Sterling Collegiate Institute by a score of 6 to 0. The contest was stoutly contested from the start the feature of which was the run of K. C. B. C. over three-fourths of the field for a touchdown. The goal was kicked by Bryan.

The North Middletown College team has a fine record for the season losing only one game out of the total of eight played during the season. In the first game of the season they were overwhelmed by the team of the Millersburg Military Institute and defeated by a score of 27 to 0. Under the superb coaching and training of Col. H. M. Pyles, Jr., they steadily improved and since have not met a defeat. Twice they have met the strong team of the Paris High School and in each instance the score resulted 0 to 0.

The record of the North Middletown College team is as follows: Millersburg Military Institute, 26; K. C. B. C., 0; Paris High School, 0; K. C. B. C., 0; Clay's College, 0; K. C. B. C., 10; Paris High School, 0; K. C. B. C., 0; North Middletown, 0; K. C. B. C., 10; Millersburg Military Institute, 0; K. C. B. C., 17; Mt. Sterling Collegiate Institute, 0; K. C. B. C., 6.

TREATMENT OF MUSCLE STRAIN.

Pains Often Mistaken for Rheumatism, Fest the Cure.

A muscle which has been strained either by overuse or by use in some unaccustomed way often gives rise to such severe symptoms as to lead to a diagnosis of some other and more serious trouble. This affection is not the same as that called myalgia, which indeed means pain in a muscle, but is usually of rheumatic or neuralgic nature. The trouble here meant is something less serious, being nothing more than a strain.

It is easy to see that any muscular pain may be mistaken for rheumatism or some acute inflammation, as it may give rise to precisely the same painful symptoms. For example, when it occurs in some muscle on the right side of the abdomen it has been known to look for a time exactly like the colic of appendicitis, and it has time and again been treated as true rheumatism.

There are several ways in which the facts may be discovered. On questioning it will be found that some muscle or certain set of muscles has been subjected to an unusual strain and is in a state of mutiny in consequence. The pain will be worse at night and better in the morning after the night's rest, proving that it has a basis of fatigue. Furthermore, it will yield entirely to a proper amount of rest. In fact this one thing—rest—comprises the whole of the treatment.

When the abdominal muscles are involved there must be rest in bed, with perhaps some anodyne to deaden the pain at first—this, of course, to be given only under the order of a physician. In milder cases the patients can go about their usual duties if fitted properly with an abdominal belt.

When the muscles at the back of the neck are affected it is a great relief always to use a high-backed chair, and when the pain is in the arm a sling should be worn.

When this condition of painful muscle is found in conjunction with a general loss of tone, as shown by lack of appetite, pallor and debility, then in addition to local rest to the particular muscle involved a general course of tonic treatment should be instituted. When the trouble can be traced directly to the daily vocation of the sufferer a change should be made in the habits for a time where this is possible. Unfortunately with most persons their daily bread will depend upon the use of just this particular muscle, and in these cases there is nothing to do but placate the part with all the rest that can be given it and help it with mechanical support for a time if this is feasible.

WISCONSIN FARMER DEFIED THE STATE

DEFENDER OF CAMERON DAM AND HIS FIGHT AGAINST A LUMBER COMPANY.

FLOUTED THE LAW FOR YEARS

Routed Posse After Posse of Sheriffs and Surrendered Only When Surrounded and Wounded — Makes Claim of Self-Defense.

Winter, Wis.—After having conducted a rebellion against the state of Wisconsin for six years, John F. Dietz, a settler in a wild stretch of woodland in Sawyer county, surrendered to the law. His fight against the state and the circumstances growing out of it form one of the most singular stories in the history of the west and throw into the shade the most daring deeds of the border.

During the period of his revolt the Dietz family lived practically in a state of siege. Many battle were fought between Dietz and deputy sheriffs sent to arrest him, and a score or more persons were wounded. Three sheriffs resigned their jobs rather than face Dietz in his stronghold in the woods, and one was imprisoned for contempt of court because he would not expose his life in serving legal papers on the "outlaw" who defied the whole state of Wisconsin. At one time it was seriously proposed that the state militia be called out to subdue the nifty settler.

John F. Dietz came into the limelight years ago when he defended Cameron dam on Thornapple river against one of the largest lumber companies in the state. He claimed the dam was on his property and tied up several winters' cuts of logs, valued at thousands of dollars, by refusing to allow them to pass the dam without paying toll. He was fought in the courts by the company, but defied the order of the judges and held off at the point of a gun all officers who attempted to serve papers upon him. Dietz won. The lumber company paid him a large sum and he allowed the logs to go through.

The isolation of the locality enabled him to hold the fort successfully against corporation, courts, and sheriffs. Few persons were acquainted with the trails leading to the homestead and of these none would guide an attacking party. The sheriff deputized men from all over the state to make the arrest of Dietz, and several were shot in fights. In one engagement Dietz's son was shot in the head, but recovered.

The late controversy between Dietz and the authorities of Sawyer county dates from the time when Dietz shot and seriously wounded Bert Horrell in Winter in a wrangle, it is said, over rent due on a schoolhouse.

Dietz first quarreled with C. G. O'Hara, president of the Winter school board. It is said, and Horrell, taking O'Hara's part, struck Dietz. Dietz then shot and has since claimed it was in self-defense. After the shooting Dietz had defied the sheriff to serve a warrant on him. This act cost Dietz a great deal of the popular sympathy.

During his six years of revolt Dietz obtained his supplies in this town, which required a long drive over rough and almost impassable roads. Shortly after the quarrel with Horrell he sent two of his sons and a daughter to this place to buy provisions and ammunition. On the way home they were ambushed by a posse and two of them—the girl and one of the boys—were shot and taken prisoners. The other son escaped; and for several days Winter was in a state of alarm owing to a rumor that Dietz was to leave his stronghold and make reprisal for the shooting of his children.

And then elaborate preparations were made by the sheriff to effect the capture of Dietz—alive or dead. With a force of 90 men he surrounded the Dietz house, taking up positions during the night which commanded the stronghold on every side. In the morning Dietz and the members of his family, all unarmed and none suspecting the ambush, went out from the house into the clearing around it. The father and one son were shot, but not dangerously wounded, and all succeeded in reaching the shelter of the house, from which they repelled to the fire of the encircling posse, one of whom was shot and killed. Afterwards Dietz sent out a flag of truce and surrendered. His remarkable revolt against the authority of the state had ended.

JESSIE MORRISON OUT ON PAROLE IN KANSASTEN YEARS AGO SHE KILLED THE WOMAN WHO WAS HER SUC-CESSFUL RIVAL.

Topeka, Kan.—Jessie Morrison, the best known woman convict in the Kansas state penitentiary, was paroled recently by Gov. Stubbs. The parole was a complete surprise to Miss Morrison, and Gov. Stubbs said he did not know two hours before he signed the parole that he was going to release her. The governor concluded that the last trial was not important.

The crime for which Jessie Morrison was sent to the penitentiary was the murder of Mrs. Olin Wiley Castle, her successful rival for the affections of Olin Castle of Eldorado, June 22, 1900. The case was one of the most sensational in the history of the Kansas court. Miss Morrison was given three separate trials.

At the first trial there was a hung jury, nine jurors standing for acquitted and three for conviction of manslaughter. At the second trial she was convicted of manslaughter and sentenced to the penitentiary for five years. She went to the penitentiary and remained there for two months and three days pending a new trial. At the third trial she was convicted of murder, and was sentenced to the penitentiary for 25 years.

Miss Morrison went to the penitentiary to begin serving her 25-year term July 8, 1902. She has served eight years, three years more than she was sentenced for on the second trial. Thousands of letters from all parts of the state and from other states are on file at the governor's office petitioning for a pardon or a parole for Jessie Morrison. Gov. Stubbs has been through all of them and knows every detail of the case.

Jessie Morrison left the penitentiary in company with Warden and Mrs. J. K. Cuddy. She went to Kansas City and from there to Excelsior Springs, where she has a sister, Mrs. Ida Hawley.

The terms of the parole provide that she may remain in Kansas or go to Missouri or Oklahoma. Her aged father lives in Oklahoma, at Calumet. Jessie Morrison is about 40 years of age. She cut Mrs. Castle's throat with a razor, Mrs. Castle living three days following the attack, although her windpipe was severed. Olin Castle, the man in the case, is married again and now lives in California.

BAKE BREAD AND DARN SOCKS

Home Manager of Richest Policeman
Tells Young People How to Succeed.

Chicago.—"Bake bread and darn socks," is the advice of Mrs. Anton Klinger to wives who want wealth to come to their husbands. Mrs. Klinger is the wise, general manager and treasurer of the Klinger family. By baking bread and darning socks and practicing other housewifery arts and economies she has helped her husband become the richest policeman in Chicago, with an income of $600 a month from his houses.

Mrs. Klinger says it is all due to the study and practice of household economy, which includes everything from building a kitchen fire to managing a husband.

Not the least important detail of managing a husband, Mrs. Klinger says, is keeping him home evenings. "The way to keep a man home," she says, "is to keep him busy." If you don't he will get tired of his home and get in the habit of passing his evenings down town. I used to manage to have odd jobs for Mr. Klinger about the house, and when he wasn't working he was reading.

"Here is my advice to young people. Get married just as early as the man is earning enough money to take care of a wife, and buy a home with the first savings. There is nothing that will make two persons try to save like the thought that it is going to pay for a home of their own. It will make both work together and they will be happier for it. There is no surer way to save money than to spend it for a home of your own."

Parrot Talks to Mens.

Winsted, Conn.—A parrot, owned by Otto E. Schneider of Sandfield, escaped in the evening and flew to the henhouse of N. H. Snow, one of Schneider's neighbors. It talked to the hens, which became alarmed at its presence. Snow heard its voice and thinking it was a chicken thief robbing his roosts, brought his gun into play, killing Polly. Schneider gave Polly a decent burial.

CHOOSING THE

In choosing the family cow one is not limited nowadays in the matter of breed. Well-bred stock has become so general, that ordinarily one can buy at option an individual of almost any of the approved breeds; not a pedigreed animal, perhaps, unless a rather high price is paid, but a "high-grade," which means that the animal is not a registered pedigree, but is nearly enough pure-bred to be so for all practical purposes. It remains, then, to choose whether one will buy a Holstein, a Jersey, an Ayrshire, or one of any other of the breeds commonly in use.

The choice must be made in accordance with what is most wanted, whether milk or cream. If cream, the choice, most emphatically, should be a Jersey or a Guernsey. But for feeding infants, a milk a little less rich in butter fats than that given by these animals is generally better. An ideal cow for this purpose is a cross between the Jersey and Ayrshire, and this, perhaps, is as good a family cow as can be had for all the uses generally required. But it is only occasionally that a cow bred in just this way is to be found, and a cross of the Jersey or Guernsey—which are strictly butter breeds—upon any of the approved milk breeds makes an animal of very similar characteristics. The strictly milk breeds are not recommended for family cows.

The first thing to remember in choosing a cow is that the cow most feminine in appearance is the best milker. Roughly speaking, she should be shaped something like a wedge—large and well-developed behind, and small and fine in front.

She should be wide between the hips and low in the flank, with her hind quarters set a little apart, so as to give room for her udder. Her belly should be of good size, but should round outward, rather than downward, and her rump should be straight—that is, the root of her tail should be nearly on a line with her back-bone. The shoulders should be thin and rather narrow at the top; chest deep rather than broad; neck thin, head small, but longish—clean-cut and fine in the muzzle. The horns should be small and of fine texture; and the eyes rather large, but mild and gentle, and not showing much of the white. Her skin should be soft and pliable, and the finer and silkier her coat the better.

The udder should be large and well-developed, but should stay properly in its place and not sag down too low. The four teats should stand well apart from each other, forming a "square" udder; and they should be smooth and soft, free from warts or excrescences. They should also be long enough to be taken hold of by the whole hand in milking, as when they are so short as to have to be held between the thumb and two fingers, the work of milking is greatly increased.

The udder should always be free from fleshiness, and after being emptied of milk it should be soft, shrunken and somewhat wrinkled. Fleshiness in the udder cannot be detected when it is full, and the only test is to have the cow milked. This test also shows how much milk she gives and whether she is gentle.

If the cow has any bad habit—such as breaking out of her pasture or rarely being discovered on such first examination as the purchaser can give, even if he is very careful; but it is sure to show itself later. So in this matter he must trust the seller and take his chance. But the chance, after all, is not a very long one, for the overwhelming majority of cows are free from these habits, and if she is gentle to milk and handle there is usually little to fear.

A great many new owners of cows are disappointed at first in the amount of milk obtained. This is because the cow is always uneasy and homesick in a new place, and she must become thoroughly wonted to her surroundings before she will do her best at the pail. This is a matter not infrequently of a week or more.

This homesickness cannot be avoided, but it can be shortened, and some of the uneasiness of the cow averted by attending very carefully to her wants and rendering her, if possible, more comfortable than in the place she came from.

Pintch Oil for Gophers.

In Colorado prairie dogs have been destroyed with bisulphide of carbon gas in a manner similar to the experiment tried in Minnesota at university farm on pocket gophers. Recently the Colorado station has tried, with wonderful success, pintch oil—a by-product of the pintch gas and used for lighting trains. It has been used for the same manner as bisulphide of carbon is used, with equal fatal results on the prairie dog. It is assumed in Minnesota that if pintch oil fumigation is destructive of prairie dog life in Colorado it ought to be equally so in Minnesota with pocket gophers and the Minnesota experiment station probably will experiment with it. This oil is only half as expensive as bisulphides of carbon, according to the Colorado report, and can be procured at railroad centers where there is a pintch gas factory. Only half as much of it is required to kill a prairie dog in his burrow as of bisulphide.

No man ever loved a great good without hating that which stood in its way.

WHAT SIMPSON DID ABOUT IT.

He Was Fully Convinced of the Advantages of Advertising.

"Once, when I was editing a paper in a Lancashire town, I convinced a man in a most emphatic way that it paid to advertise," said an old journalist. "He was a fairly prosperous tradesman, whom I will call Simpson, and I had tried for a long time to get him to insert an advertisement in my paper."

"Oh, it's no use," he would say. "I never read the advertisements in a paper, and no one else does. I believe in advertising, but in a way that will force itself on the public. Then it pays. But in a newspaper—pshaw! Everybody who reads a newspaper dodges the advertising pages as if they were poison."

"Well," said I, "if I can convince you that people do read the advertising pages of my paper, will you advertise?"

"Of course I will. I will advertise whenever I think it will do any good."

"The next day I had the following line set up in the smallest type in the office, and stuck it in the most obscure corner of the paper:

"What is Simpson going to do about it?"

"The next day so many people annoyed Simpson by asking him what the line meant that he begged me to explain the matter in my next issue. I promised to do so if he would let me write the explanation and stand to it. He agreed, and I wrote:—

"He's going to advertise, of course."

"And he did."

Like His Father.

At the Grant family dinner, says the New York Sun, Major General Frederick D. Grant, told this story on himself:

"I was booked to speak at a large dinner in town and the toastmaster felt it incumbent upon him to make my path as smooth as possible. He therefore spoke of my father and said that I strongly resembled him. This had the desired effect on the people present and they gave me their best attention."

"Although I spoke as well as I could I felt that everyone was disappointed in me and I sat down with relief that it was over."

"The toastmaster rose and smiled at me. Then he said to the guest:—

"Didn't I tell you he was just like his father? He can't speak worth a cent."

His Word Was Good, Though.

Representative John S. Williams tells of a case tried in a Southern court where counsel for the defendant endeavored to impugn the testimony of a negro witness. The latter regarded the lawyers with a mixed expression of astonishment and resentment. Then, turning to the judge, he said:

"Yo' honah, I see a pore but respectable man. I see always behave mahself. I ain't never been lynched an' the only mule I ever stole knocked me down an' broke one of my laigs."—Success.

An Important Summons.

They had been married but two months, and they still loved each other devotedly. He was in the backyard blacking his boots.

"Jack!" she called, at the top of her voice. "Jack, come here, quick!"

He knew at once that she was in danger. He grasped a stick and rushed up two flights of stairs to the rescue. He entered the room breathlessly, and found her looking out of the window.

"Look!" she said. "That's the kind of a bonnet I want you to buy me."

The Parson Explained.

A Scots minister had forgotten to bring his manuscript to the church and on going into the pulpit gave his congregation this explanation: "I am very sorry, my friends, to have to tell you that I have mislaid my manuscript. I must, therefore, this morning just say to you what the Lord has put into my mouth, but I trust I shall come this afternoon better provided."—London Tatler.

An Outside Vegetarian.

"If you are not an outside vegetarian, you are not really a vegetarian at all."

The speaker was a member of Philadelphia's little vegetarian church uptown. An odd figure in his gray health shirt, gray ventilated suit, gray knit gloves, gray aerated hat, gray cloth boots, he continued:

"An inside vegetarian is one who puts in his interior nothing that has been procured by the slaughter of animals. An outside vegetarian puts on his exterior nothing that has been procured by the slaughter of animals."

"See my gloves—vegetable gloves—cotton—not made of the skins of murdered kids. See my boots—woolen—owing nothing to some poor murdered calf. See my buttons—wooden—not made of grisly bones."

"Inside and outside"—so the quaint faddist concluded—"I am a vegetarian, and inside I get along without the murdering of any creature, fish, flesh or fowl. There are many like me."—Philadelphia Press.

Something Definite.

Angelina Spring, in spite of the beatific sound of her name, had a bad temper. One day she insisted on crying, and protested, when the question was put often enough to elicit an answer that she had a "pain." Exactly where, she would not or could not describe. Her persistent fretting finally won for her a vigorous spanking.

After the punishment there was quiet. A caller came, and heard the tale.

"You see," said Mrs. Spring, "she kept saying that 'it hurt her,' but she wouldn't say where. So there seemed no other way to stop her bawling than to spank her."

"Kind of localizing the pain?" suggested the visitor.

"Yes," agreed Mrs. Spring, heartily. "That is it precisely."

A Remarkable Aeroplane.

Thomas A. Edison believes that the aeroplane will not be of real practical use until it is made on the helicopter principle.

"However," said Mr. Edison, the other day, "I heard of a new aeroplane that went without a hitch last week all the way from Chicago to Philadelphia."

"It went," he added, "by train."—Philadelphia Press.

Brief and to the Point.

The Demure Brown Maiden in Her
Holiday Attire.

The Japanese college girl entertaining the fudge party with oriental reminiscences.

"On every holiday," she said, "the Japanese maiden must rise and have her toilet finished before the sun looks over Fujiyama, our sacred mountain."

"And what a toilet! The long, coarse black tresses are washed, combed and greased till the head shines like a knob of polished black marble. The cheeks are rouged a fine pink. The throat, neck and bosom are powdered, but at the nape of the neck there are left three lines of the original brown skin, in accordance with the rules of Japanese cosmetics."

"With charcoal she rounds and lengthens her eyebrows. She reddens her lips with cherry paste, adding a gilt diamond to the center of the pouting lower lip. She puts on eight fresh garments, and she ties her obi, or great sash, in a symbolical knot. Her socks—she doesn't wear stockings—are very white and pure, and her clogs are lacquered till they shine like a silk hat."

"Now she is ready to set out. She fills her silk tobacco pouch, thrusts her pipe in her girdle, puts six paper handkerchiefs up her wide sleeve and sallies forth, turning her toes in and waving her fan with a demure grace."—Los Angeles Times.

The Story of a Song.

The story of "Ninety and Nine," the well-known hymn the music for which Mr. Ira D. Sankey improvised in a burst of deep feeling, was told by the Rev. Dr. C. E. Locke, at the funeral of Mr. Sankey. The evangelist had found a little poem, "The Lost Sheep," in a Scotch newspaper, so runs Doctor Locke's account in the Brooklyn Eagle, and had clipped it. One night in Edinburgh Mr. Moody asked him to sing. Mr. Moody had just finished his sermon, "The Good Shepherd." Mr. Sankey had no thought of composing a new song, but as he used to tell the story:

"As I sat at the organ my fingers fell on a flat and my eyes fell on that little poem. I began to sing and I sang the words of that poem."

When he had finished, Mr. Moody rushed down from the platform and asked him where he had found that song. He said it was the most wonderful song he had ever heard. Mr. Moody was weeping, Mr. Sankey was weeping and the audience was in tears, so great was the impression produced by the song.

"I sang it as God gave it to me," Mr. Sankey replied. He never changed a note of the song from the time it fell from his lips.

USE OF BOTH HANDS.

Ambidexterity, it is asserted, develops the intelligence.

A movement has been started in Germany for the cultivation of ambidexterity. The idea is that developing the power to use both hands equally well means developing the intelligence in general and the memory in particular.

It is said to have been scientifically ascertained that while right handed people have the organ of speech on the left side of the brain, and vice versa, people who are ambidextrous have two language centers, one in each lobe of the brain. The infant begins life with two speech centers, but as the right hand is generally trained and the left neglected, the right speech center gradually grows torpid and useless.

The extraordinary claim is now made that by the cultivation of the left hand the capacity of the right speech center of the brain can be revived, and to that extent broadened the intelligence, as ambidexterity increases the use of the human beings hand.

Instances are quoted by supporters of the movement in which practicing the left hand has rescued a power of speech until then paralyzed. One patient in question was stricken and with it paralysis of the right hand. The doctor started teaching the patient to write with the left hand, with astonishing results that in a short time the power of speech was awakened in the hitherto torpid organ of speech.

An even more astonishing case was that of a boy who at the age of thirteen lost his left hand but soon learned to do fairly well with an artificial member. At the age of thirty, he suffered a stroke of paralysis which robbed him of the power of speech, but by means of a small ring with a pen attached to it fixed in the artificial limb he could practice writing, and thus not only recovered power over his original speech, but over French and Russian, which he had forgotten. As a matter of fact ambidexterity is necessary in several professions and occupations, of which surgery and also piano playing may be given as examples.—Berlin Letter London Standard.

Precise.

A young Baltimore Man has a habit of correcting carelessness in speech that comes to his notice. The other day he walked into a shop and asked for a comb. "Do you want a narrow man's comb?" asked the clerk. "No," said the customer, gravely, "I want a comb for a stout man with rubber teeth."

Paris Defeated by Caldwell.

An exciting game of football was played Wednesday afternoon at Richmond between the Caldwell High School and the Paris High School teams, resulting in a score of 5 to 0 for Caldwell. Both teams were equally matched and a stubborn contest was the result.

Barbee, Douglas, G. C. Thompson, Chisholm and Link did the best individual work for Paris. Gumbert, Devore, Vaughn, Eads, Collins and Schlegel did the star work for the locals. Gumbert made a forty-yard run for a touchdown, after getting the ball by a punt, while Devore, on two occasions, by brilliant work kept the visitors from scoring. Paris worked the forward pass successfully for long gains, while the Caldwell team resorted to straight bucks and end runs.

Accidentally Shot.

As the result of an accidental discharge of a shotgun in the hands of Thomas Watson, a young man of the Clintonville neighborhood, Jesse Boner, aged 17 years, is a patient in the Good Samaritan Hospital, Lexington, and there is a possibility he may lose his foot.

The accident occurred on the farm of Mr. O. L. Davis, on the Iron Works pike, in the southwestern part of the county. Young Boner and an elder brother were at a barn near the home when Watson, who was hunting game, shaking hands with both, when the gun was carrying, was in some unaccountable manner discharged, the entire load of shot taking effect in Boner's left ankle.

A physician from Clintonville was immediately summoned to attend his injury and his removal to Lexington hospital was advised, he being taken there in G. W. Davis' ambulance, and where it was thought the injured member would have to be amputated.

PRETTY HOME WEDDING

Miss Georgia Dow Rion Becomes the Wife of Mr. Wm. McPherson, of Montana.

A pretty event in the annals of the social affairs of this city was the wedding of Miss Georgia Dow Rion of Paris, to Mr. William McPherson of White Fish, Mont., which was celebrated at the home of the bride's parents Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Rion, on West Second street yesterday afternoon, Elder Carey E. Morgan of the Christian church officiating.

The wedding was one of the prettiest home events and there were about one hundred guests present to witness the ceremony. The parlor in which the ceremony was performed was darkened and softly illuminated with electrolights. The decorations were of palms, ferns and southern smilax with floor vases filled with yellow chrysanthemums adding to the beauty of the scene.

A bank of palms and ferns extending from the mantelpiece in the parlor to the center of the room formed a screen behind which were the musicians and members of the girls' club, of which the bride was a member. Miss Betsy Ray and Miss Lucille Price, two talented young musicians, the former on the piano and the latter on the violin, rendered several beautiful selections while the guests assembled.

To the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march the bride and groom came down the stairway to the hall leading to the parlor.

There were no attendants. They were met in the parlor by Elder Morgan and Miss Corinne Collins, who acted as maid. The ring ceremony was used, the groom kneeling before his bride for the benediction. The bride, who is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Rion, was beautiful in her attractive wedding gown of brown hopsacking, and carried a beautiful bouquet of bride's roses.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. McPherson were showered with the good wishes of the guests, the bride retiring to the landing in the upper hall from which she threw the bride's bouquet which was caught by Miss Mary Ashbrook.

The couple were the recipients of many handsome and costly presents. In the past few weeks a number of enjoyable social events have been given in honor of the bride by the members of the Young Girls' Euchre Club, of which she was a member.

After the congratulations Mr. and Mrs. McPherson were driven to the L. & N. depot where they took the 3:45 train for Chicago where they will remain for a week before going to White Fish, Mont., where they will make their home.

Among those from a distance who attended the wedding were Mrs. L. W. Craig and daughter, Miss Evelyn Craig, and Mrs. Harriet Tandy of Vevay, Ind., and Mrs. J. D. Houston of Wichita, Kansas.

Girl Baby Born.

A girl baby was born Monday to Mrs. D. D. Whistman, wife of the man who shot to death Thomas Miller, Mrs. Whistman's father, near Athens, Fayette county, Sunday. Mrs. Whistman was the only witness of the affair which occurred in her room Sunday shortly after noon, when her father attempted to shoot her husband with a shotgun and she interfered, causing both charges to miss. Whistman then shot his father-in-law three times with a pistol, killing him instantly.

The child is a healthy one, and both mother and daughter are reported to be doing well.

Owing to the illness of his wife the examining trial of Whistman was passed until Saturday. By agreement of the Commonwealth the prisoner's bail was fixed at $2,500. Evidence brought out at the coroner's inquest leaves no doubt that the shooting was in self defense.

Queer Find in Conger.

While fishing off Dungeness, Mr. Borough, of Wanstead Park, London, caught a conger weighing 16½ pounds, and upon opening it found a whole fresh herring wrapped up in a German newspaper.

NEW USE FOR WHALES.

It is on record that a schoolboy essayist once solemnly stated that the sheep is famous for its mutton chops; soon another can follow suit and tell us that the whale is renowned for its cutlets. In California waters a whaler has been equipped with a canning installation and expects in one voyage to put about 20,000 pounds of flesh of the leviathan of the deep. Whale, it is averred, makes good feeding, somewhat rich and even greasy, but eminently sustaining and on the whole toothsome. Hitherto, as soon as the blubber was secured and the bone prized out, the flesh was thrown away as useless and that practice sets up rather a prejudice against the dish. It now appears, however, that the only reason for letting the flesh go adrift was the impossibility of storing it; once that difficulty is overcome, it is expected that whale cutlet will be first a wonder, then a delicacy and finally a common item of diet.

A paean of praise of fish as a universal article of food has recently been sung by Sir James Crichton-Browne to a meeting of the Sanitary Inspectors' association, held, appropriately enough, in the London Fishmongers' Hall. In particular, he recommended a fish food as a preventative of the great white plague, tuberculosis. It will come as revelation to many to learn, on authority, that the despised bloater offers the largest amount of nutriment for a given sum of any animal food, and that two salt herring contain as much animal protein as need enter into the daily dietary of an ordinary workman.

A new terror was indeed added to those to which the sanitary inspectors are already exposed. As fish often signalize by a trifling change in the odor they emit the point when they have ceased to be edible, Sir James proposes that the inspectors, in addition to the other tests they have to undergo, should be required to pass a nasal examination. Some men he said, are born without the sense of smell—even great poets have been known to be thus afflicted. The sense may be abolished by disease and quickened by education. The spectacle of the candidate tuning up his olfactory organ to the requisite pitch will be a sight for gods and men. A new force will be added to the nickname by which the sanitary inspector is even now known—namely a "smeller-out."

But to return to our whales. There is some doubt as to whether the whale can or cannot be properly classed as fish. He is in much the same case as the crab, which someone once defined as "a red fish that walks backward," whereupon those who were more intimately acquainted with the crustacean retorted that he was not red, was not a fish and did not walk backward—all of which shows the danger of dogmatism in definition. The point, therefore, has been raised as to whether, if you are debarred from eating meat on Friday, you can fall back on whale. It is a subtle question, and will, we suppose, have to be settled by the theologians. For our part we lean to the belief that for a long time to come those who can have whale flesh during the remainder of the week will willingly dispense with it one day out of seven.—Washington Post.

Misunderstood.

Actyn Barnes, tragedian, solemnly strutted into the bar of the night stand hotel. "Put a pint of wine on the ice, my friend," he said to the man behind the counter. "Not if I'm in my right mind I won't!" chuckled the other, who happened to be the proprietor; "cash down is the rule in the here tavern, 'gosh!'"

I do not think it necessary to go into details concerning my case, but I can recommend this remedy, knowing that it lives up to the claims made for it. I have not had a recurrence of the trouble and it is only with a desire to tell other kidney sufferers of a good kidney remedy that I recommend Doan's Kidney Pills."

She's Taking It Off.

Along about 9 o'clock every night, and continuing till 12, a great sigh is heard, as if from many who have suffered long and at last found relief. Sometimes it comes from many throats, and sometimes, as the hours grow later, not from so many throats, but the sigh is louder, indicating that the relief is greater, says the Atchison (Kan.) Globe. It was a sigh of relief from women all over the world taking off their corsets at the close of a day.

Found Buried Treasure.

A navy at Fontenoy-sous-Bois last week struck with his pick a hard substance which, on investigation, proved to be a vase containing 10-franc and 5-franc pieces. The other day two more vases were dug up by another navy, and in them was found money amounting to no less than $20,000.

RIVAL OF RADIUM

CONFERENCE OF SOLAR SCIENTISTS BREAKS UP WITH ANNOUNCEMENT.

Journey at $25,000 Expense to See Three-Minute Eclipse from Mount Wilson.

Los Angeles, California — With the breaking up of the conference of solar scientists held on Mt. Wilson last week and the departure for various points today of the wise men who took part in its deliberations, comes the announcement of several phenomena under investigations by observers of the world.

Perhaps most startling and important is the search for the definition of cronium to be prosecuted by the Rev. Father A. L. Cortie, director of Stonyhurst College observatory, who is sent by the British government to Vanau Island, in the Tonga group of South Sea Islands, where he will observe the sun's eclipse on April 28, 1911.

Father Cortie is one of the most eminent authorities on the sun's corona. He is traveling 25,000 miles to observe the eclipse, which will be total for a period of three and one-half minutes. For this purpose the British government has appropriated $25,000.

"The nature of Cronium is unknown to science," said Father Cortie. "It was found in the ultraviolet spectrum of the sun's corona taken by Prof. D. W. Dyson of the Royal Observatory of Scotland."

"It is to confirm the observations of Prof. Dyson and also the observations of Maj. E. H. Hills of London, who before me have headed British eclipse expeditions, that I am sent into the South Seas."

"I will endeavor to obtain new lines in the solar spectrum in ultra-violet by which we may develop new chemicals nearer the line showing the presence of cronium."

"How will scientists be able to discover the substance on earth corresponding with cronium?" was asked.

"We do not know whether we will be able to discover it," replied the British savant. "Although it is a pretty well established theory that whatever is found on the sun is found also on the earth, we may be baffled by cronium. That mysterious substance does not appear in the spectra of the sun proper. Or at least, there have as yet been obtained no spectra showing its existence."

"How powerful cronium is it is hard to say. It may make radium, earth's most powerful substance, a pigmy in comparison. It may be equal in power and less hard to obtain than radium. It may be a part of radium or radium a part of cronium."

Another interesting phenomena which science is seeking to unravel is the apparent movement of the Milky Way into the sun.

Another phenomena is to be observed in the twin star of Sirius, the dog-star, which has been discovered by observers on Mt. Wilson. The twin bodies, one dark and the other light, are each twenty times greater in mass than the sun. Mt. Wilson observers believe that Sirius and its dark neighbor are revolving about each other in the same manner as the metal spheres on the governor of a steam engine.

REAL ESTATE INVESTMENTS.

A New York paper, in tracing the history of a valuable piece of real estate in that city, finds that in 1805 the tract sold for $25,000. In 1844 it was sold under foreclosure proceedings for $47,500. In 1852 it sold for $60,000. In 1865 it was acquired for business purposes at a cost of $410,000 by a corporation which made extensive improvements. The assessment of 1910 fixes the value of the land, exclusive of improvements at $1,750,000. It is likely to be placed on the market at an early date and probably will sell for something like the price of a gold mine in active and successful operation.

Similar instances of tremendous increases in value may be found in any of the large cities of the United States. In fact, there is scarcely any city of appreciable size which cannot make a proportionately surprising showing with respect to desirable tracts of real estate. If the span of human life were longer a man might invest a very modest amount of capital in real estate and go along about his business with the comforting assurance that he would some day be a millionaire. Inasmuch, however, as the hands of the clock of time may not be turned back, the "good things in realty investments are for those who have energy and judgment and who possess or can command working capital."—Louisville Courier Journal.

Nodd—I can tell you, old man, I am feeling pretty good this morning; we just got word that my wife's family is coming to spend Christmas with us.

Topp—Good! Way good over such a calamity?

"Well, you see, if they weren't coming to us, we should have to visit them."

Mildred—Papa, I am going to make mamma one of those three-dollar center-pieces that the Woman's Home Jabber says can be made at home for seventy-five cents.

Papa—(remembering past years)—Certainly, dear! Here's ten dollars. That ought to be enough to cover the expense.

BAKING THE APPLE

RIGHT METHOD KEEPS JUICE IN THE FRUIT.

Should Be Basted With Very Sweet Water—Some Excellent Recipes for Preparing This Reliable Dessert.

The baked apple is one of the most convenient, reliable, and agreeable of our easy and highly excellent desserts or side dishes, but there are baked apples and baked apples. Some have little or no virtue in them because the taste has been cooked out instead of in. To baste the apple with a liquid that is largely sugar, flavored with apple juice, is one of the ways of keeping taste in. To cook the apple in considerable water, basting or not basting, is likely to cook considerable taste out.

This time of year the sweet apple may be obtained for baking and it is an excellent luncheon or even breakfast dish eaten in milk, plenty of it—apples and milk instead of bread and milk. If an apple is not sweet it should be genuinely sour and crisp, or it is not good for baking.

Baked Apples with Butter and Sugar Sirup.—Four medium sized apples, one-half pound of sugar, one ounce of butter. Remove core from apples and place in a pie tin; fill opening with sugar and butter and bake slowly until done. Take them out carefully and place them on a platter. Place tin of juice on stove and add the remainder of sugar and butter and boil, stirring constantly until it becomes light brown. Add boiling water to make it the consistency of thin jelly and pour over apples. Serve warm.

Baked Apples, Creole Style.—Pare and core six tart apples; fill the cavities with sugar, lemon juice, and water. Bake until tender, but not broken. Remove to a serving dish, fill the center with jelly or marmalade, and pour any liquid left in the baking dish over them. Beat the whites of two eggs until dry, then gradually beat in two tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar, then cut and fold in two tablespoonfuls more, adding one-half teaspoon of vanilla extract and one-fourth teaspoon of lemon extract. Press the meringue on the tops of the apples, using a forcing bag and star tube; let stand in oven moderately heated eight minutes. Serve warm.

Stuffed Baked Apples.—Core apples, fill center with sugar, place in a pan with a little water, and bake until tender. Place a toasted marshmallow with a few chopped English walnut meats in the center of each and serve cold with whipped cream.

Baked Apples.—Core but do not peel apples and place in covered dish containing water. On each apple put sugar and a little butter. These are practically steamed apples and delicious, the skin not being so hard as when baked. Keep covered until ready to serve. There should be a nice amount of liquid for each one.

Jellied Apples.—Wash and quarter apples, put in a crock with a half cup of water and two-thirds cup of sugar. Bake in a slow oven, pushing top layer down often. Let cook till jellied.

Tomato Jelly.

Strain the juice from a number of stewed tomatoes and cook over the fire for a quarter of an hour with a bay leaf and a sliced onion. To a pint of the juice add a tablespoonful of gelatine previously softened in a little cold water. Stir the juice until the gelatine is dissolved, take from the fire and strain after seasoning well with salt, cayenne and a dash of celery salt. Pour into a mould and put in a cold place until the jelly is firm. This may be served on lettuce with mayonnaise, or it may be used as a garnish for cold meats, in which latter case the jelly need not be poured into a mould but into a large shallow dish.

Devil's Food.

Boil one cup bitter chocolate, one cup sour milk, one cup brown sugar, set aside until cool. Beat to a cream one cup granulated sugar, one scant cup butter, add three eggs, well beaten, one cup sour milk. After this has been beaten add your cold chocolate, one teaspoonful vanilla, two and one-half cups of flour, sifted with teaspoonful baking soda. Be sure and use baking soda and not baking powder. Then beat all together. Bake in layers in a hot oven.

Sour Cream Pie.

One cupful of chopped apple, one cupful of seeded raisins, one cupful of sugar, one-half cupful of sour cream, one-half cupful of sour milk, one-quarter teaspoonful each of cinnamon, nutmeg, and cloves, one-half teaspoonful of salt. Peel apples and chop with raisins. Mix all together and bake in pie with cover.

To Clean Kettles.

New iron kettles may be cleaned by boiling in them a good-sized handful of hay. Let boil one hour, then scour with soap and sand. Fill again with clear water and allow it to boil. After this treatment they will not discolor anything cooked in them.

Cocoa Frosting.

One cup of pulverized sugar, two tablespoonfuls of dry cocoa, a small piece of butter, a scant gill of hot coffee. Cook all together and spread on the cake.

FOOD FOR A YEAR

Meat	300 lbs.
Milk	240 qts.
Butter	100 lbs.
Eggs	27 doz.
Vegetables	500 lbs.

This represents a fair ration for a man for a year.

But some people eat and eat and grow thinner. This means a defective digestion and unsuitable food. A large size bottle of equals in nourishing properties ten pounds of meat. Your physician can tell you how it does it.

H. Paynter and Congressmen Ollie James, Oweley Stanley, Robert Thomas, Ben Johnson, J. Campbell Cantrill, Swager Sherley, Harvey Helm and John Langley.

Potatoes as a Chimney Sweep.

Instead of throwing away potato peelings dry them and burn them in the stove. Those who burn soft coal will find this a great help. The potato peelings burn with such a fury that they carry the soot out of the chimney.—National Magazine.

Awful English Pun.

A young lady began singing and kept it up until her two canaries sank back exhausted in their efforts to out-sing her. Now we understand the meaning of the old saw about killing two birds with one's tone.—London Tit-Bit.

Richmond Will Have Club.

Contrary to reports emanating from Richmond a few days ago, to the effect that the Madison capital would not be represented in the Blue Grass League next year, it is now a most assured fact that Richmond will have a team next year if plans formulated are realized as the Climax of that city, gives in the following:

"Richmond will have a base ball team next season, although the organization lost about $3,000 the past year. At a meeting of the directors last week in the Elks Club, it was decided to liquidate the present organization, sell the ball park and form a new company. If the park is not sold, it is the purpose of the directors to borrow enough money on it to wipe out all the indebtedness and begin anew. Everyone seems enthusiastic over the outlook for next season, and every effort will be made to have a winning team to represent this city in the Blue Grass League. A liquidation committee composed of C. C. Wallace, Elmer Deatherage and Judge W. R. Shackelford was appointed to look into the disposing of the ball park."

They Should Be Reasonable.

Three chorus girls are said to have resigned from the staff of a musical comedy because they would not wear "horrid tights." Dear, dear, a girl must wear a little something on the stage even in these emancipated days.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Coroner's Verdict in India.

For quaintness it would be hard to beat the verdict returned in India on a man whose fate it had been to assuage a tiger's appetite. "That Pand-so died of tiger eating him. There was no other cause of death."

Paid by Distance.

A street singer was singing in front of a New York department store when the manager came out and asked how much he made. "About ten cents a block," replied the singer. "Well," said the manager, "here's a dollar; move up ten blocks."

Young America.

Elizabeth was sewing. She saw me making a buttonhole and wanted to make one, but I thought it little too hard for her; she said: "Why, mamma, that isn't hard; you just make eye winks all around that hole."—Exchange.
